Award for Mentorship

The Award for Mentorship recognizes a woman in the Emory community who has demonstrated outstanding mentorship to undergraduate, graduate students, staff, or faculty at Emory. The award honors an individual who has establishing sustained and successful mentoring relationships by:

- Helping mentees to become professionals in their field or achieve career goals by offering or promoting personal and professional development opportunities.
- Supporting and advising mentees as they achieve their personal and professional goals.
- Serving as a personal or professional role model or supervisor for mentees.

The nomination materials should include specific demonstrable examples of how the nominee has contributed to one or more of the mentoring criteria listed above. Nominees may be students, staff, or faculty.
